An Unforgettable Experience

I still have vivid memories of the trip which all my family took when I was seven years old. It was on my seventh birthday that my parents took my older brother and me to the seashore in northern Taiwan. It was such a wonderful day that whenever recalling it, I cannot but feel blessed.

That morning, upon arriving at the seashore, we began our activities without hesitation. We played games on the sands and then swam in the sea delightedly.

Blazing as the sun was, the sea was very cool, which made swimming quite pleasant. (Afterwards) we walked along the beach to appreciate the scenery.

Beyond the golden sands stretched the deep blue sea, and many beautiful mountains were on both sides of the beach; we also took some pictures. In the evening, we went to a restaurant nearby to have a hearty dinner. We all ate to our heart's content. After finishing our meals, we lay on the sands watching countless stars in the night sky, and every one of us made a wish. Late at night we started for home. On the way, I fell asleep in Father's car smilingly.

On this trip I experienced the beauty of nature with my beloved family for the first time in my life, and it made me perfectly aware that affection formed a bond among us. (226 字)

A Horrible Experience

No matter when I think of the horrible experience which I had in the summer when I was nine years old, I cannot help feeling frightened.

One hot afternoon, my friends Tom and Bob asked me to go swimming in a clear stream near Tom's house. Having nothing to do at home, I agreed with delight. As soon as we got to the stream, we all jumped into it without hesitation.

The water was cool and we were so excited that we did not notice how deep the water was; all of a sudden, Tom was caught in a whirlpool drowning. At the same time, Bob and I were completely stunned by this scene, not knowing what to do.

Fortunately, a man who was good at swimming jumped in and saved Tom in time. Tom fainted, but much to our relief, he soon regained consciousness. Due to this accident, our good moods were totally spoilt.

From this horrible experience, we learned a lesson that it was foolish to risk our lives to have fun. However, since then, I have always lived in the shadow of it. (186 字)

Mrs. Wang was a single mother, who had a son, Tim, an obedient elementary school student. After Tim's father passed away, Mrs. Wang had to run a small noodle shop alone nearby Hsinchu Train Station to make ends meet. Every day after school, Tim would go to his mother's shop, doing homework, helping her do the dishes.

One afternoon, as usual while Tim was doing his homework in the shop, a fat man waddled in, putting a handbag on the stool between them, and immediately ordered a bowl of noodles. He seemed hungry, and ate the noodles in gulps. The man told Mrs. Wang that he was named Chen and was going to Taipei to do business by train during their brief conversation. Finishing his meal in a short time, Chen paid and left. In his hurry, he left his handbag in the shop.

As Mrs. Wang noticed the bag, Chen had gone for a while. Out of curiosity, she opened the bag; much to her surprise, there were stacks of bills in it! Thinking Chen must be very worried if he found he had lost the money, Mrs. Wang suggested that Tim rush to the train station to look for Chen and return the money to him.

Hardly had Tim gotten to the station when he saw Chen walking around anxiously with beads of sweat covering his brow. As Chen saw Tim and the bag, he let out a sigh of relief and appreciated Tim's timely help.

To show his gratitude, Chen went back to the shop with Tim instead of catching the train. He generously gave half of the money to Mrs. Wang, yet she declined, and said it was the least she and Tim could do.

That day, Chen, while missing the train to do a deal, was delighted at the warmth of Mrs. Wang and Tim. As for Tim, he felt content to have helped a person and more respected his mother, for she set him a good example by showing her honesty and dignity. (339 字)

One summer night, Rex attended a masquerade on the invitation of his friend. Wearing an elaborate mask, Rex strolled aimlessly in the ballroom. At this time, he met a pretty girl in an elegant dress with a delicate crown on her head. He plucked up his courage with his heart pounding to chat with her. Then he knew the girl was named Emily, and to his great delight, she did not conceal her good feelings about him. She even let him escort her home after the masquerade.

Having fallen in love with Emily, Rex decided to express his adoration for her in a romantic way. The next night, he went to her apartment, playing the guitar and singing out his melody. However, against expectations, instead of appealing to Emily, his singing disturbed the residents in the apartment and some even shouted at him for making noise. Feeling ashamed and frustrated, he stopped singing and decided to leave at once.

When Rex was about to leave, Emily opened the window and asked him to come to her place. She then complimented him on his courage and touching music. Being unable to hide his passion any longer, Rex told Emily that he was in love with her and asked her to be his true love. She shyly nodded her approval. That night, these two young couple, with the bright moon bearing witness to them, swore they would cherish each other forever. (239 字)

In spring, various beautiful flowers are in full bloom, attracting people to go to the countryside to appreciate them. One sunny day, tourists swarmed into a fabulous garden to take a look at its beauty. The flowers greeted people passionately, and colorful butterflies played around gracefully. However, in order to get closer to the appealing flowers, some tourists, ignoring the sign which warned people not to trespass on the garden, began stepping into it and taking photographs and then many others followed them, they even plucked some flowers for souvenirs. So selfish were they that they ruined the garden simply to satisfy themselves. As a consequence, after their visits, the garden had been ruthlessly damaged. The owner of the garden suffered great loss, feeling furious and mourning for the tragedy.

As one of the tourists, I, while obeying the rule keeping off the flowers, felt ashamed of those offenders. Experiencing this incident, I had some reflections. In my opinion, many people usually violate the social norms. Their deeds trouble others and even pose threats to other people's lives. This phenomenon is, prevailing nowadays. It means that we should raise our standards of morality through education. It is important that everyone should develop an awareness of abiding by law and respecting other people's rights. When witnessing unrighteous things, we should not just look on; on the contrary, we must stand up to them to stop evil things from occurring again. If all of us understand how to show consideration and respect for one another, our society will be harmonious. (258 字)

提示：你同意“Laughter is better than medicine”這種說法嗎？以你自己或親朋好友的經驗或你所知道的故事為例，加以說明，你的論點無論是正面或是反面都不會影響你的得分。

I do believe in the value of laughter. Doctors agree that laughter has a beneficial effect on our immune system, encouraging the production of white blood cells and increasing our resistance to infection. Besides, while medicine may be able to cure many kinds of illnesses, there are some situations where medicine just cannot help. For example, when we are tense or in low spirits, a good laugh can relieve our tension and put us in a better mood. Thus, there is no denying that laughter does wonders for both physical and mental health.

A friend of mine, Tom, was once seriously ill in hospital. While he was staying in a room all by himself, he experienced a feeling of total isolation. He was very depressed and even wanted to abandon the hope of undergoing medical treatment. Realizing his situation, the doctor moved him to another room which he shared with two other patients. These two were philosophical, and always told jokes to make Tom laugh. In a few days, Tom changed completely. Not only did he feel happy but his health also improved. Tom made a full recovery earlier than the doctor had expected. From Tom's experience, I am convinced that laughter is better than medicine. (206字)

提示：請以“Music Is an Important Part of Our Life”為題，說明音樂(例如古典音樂、流行歌曲、搖滾音樂等)在生活中的重要性，並以你或他人的經驗為例，敘述音樂所帶來的好處。

Music Is an Important Part of Our Life

Music plays an essential part in our lives. It can cultivate our minds and add spice to our lives. Without it, we would feel that there is something lacking and our lives would be monotonous and dull.

To me, nothing is so entertaining as listening to music. When I feel joyful, listening to rock thrills me, putting me in a even better mood. On the other hand, if I feel anxious, I will listen to classical music and it will help me find peace of mind. Since I am fond of singing, I gain immense pleasure from singing my favorite pop songs. In addition, I have been learning the piano for twelve years. Every time I play the piano, I can leave all my worries behind. What's more, I have composed some melodies, which gives me a sense of achievement.

Music, in my opinion, makes the world a better place. Were it not for music, we could not lead a life full of pleasure. (164字)

提示：你最好的朋友最近迷上電玩，因此常常熬夜，疏忽課業，並受到父母的責罵。你（英文名字必須假設為Jack或Jill）打算寫一封信給他/她（英文名字必須假設為Ken或Barbie），適當地給予勸告。
注意：必須使用上述的Jack或Jill在信末署名，不得使用自己的真實中文或英文名字。

Dear Ken,

I have noticed that you have been addicted to playing video games recently, which leads you to waste a lot of time on it and neglect your lessons. What's worse, you often stay up playing them; as a result, you are constantly dozing in every class for lack of energy. The teachers and your parents scold you for your poor grades; however, you still have your own way, and it seems that video games are the only thing that you care about.

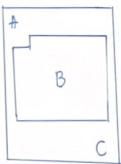

As your best friend, I am very worried about you, and I think I have an obligation to advise you. While playing video games is fun, you should do this just for amusement at your leisure; it should not take up most of your time. After all, a student's top priority is to pursue studies. Furthermore, staying up late playing video games damages your health; thus, it is a bad habit you have to get rid of. As you know, the reason why I enjoy good health is that I always keep good hours and spare time to do wholesome outdoor activities.

I hope that you can take my helpful advice and make your life be back to normal. If you can reform, everyone that cares about you will be very glad to see you to lead a meaningful life again!

Sincerely yours,

Jack

提示：你認為家裡生活環境的維持應該是誰的責任？請寫一篇短文說明你的看法。文分兩段，第一段說明你對家事該如何分工的看法及理由，第二段舉例說明你家中家事分工的情形，並描述你自己做家事的經驗及感想。

From my viewpoint, doing housework is corporate responsibility that every member in a family should take in order to maintain a tidy and cozy living environment. However, it is common that in many families most of the household chores fall on parents and their children take it for granted. In fact, if parents do not encourage children to do housework, they are depriving their children of the opportunity to comprehend the true meaning of fulfilling their obligation as family members. As a result, children will probably become selfish, for they only care about their own business. I am firmly of the opinion that doing housework can make children have more responsibility and let a family be more harmonious due to willing cooperation.

Take my family for example. My parents have been educating my brother and me to cooperate with them to take care of our house to make it a pleasant place to live in. We split the routine housework. For instance, taking out the garbage daily and vacuuming the floor three times a week are my duties. My brother is in charge of keeping the bathrooms and all the windows clean. As for my parents, they take turns doing the laundry and watering the garden on a daily basis. I do not consider doing housework tiresome; on the contrary, I relish it, for I can share a burden and my parents can obtain relief from my help, which gives me great pleasure and satisfaction. It is my belief that doing housework together strengthens the bonds between my parents and me, and I take pride in being helpful to our family. (271 字)

As a citizen of Taiwan, I am most proud of are our distinct culture and beautiful landscapes. People in Taiwan are a combination of many different backgrounds, including aborigines and those whose ancestors came from Chinese mainland. With the passage of time, people living here have formed close relations, in a harmonious atmosphere, developing a unique and rich culture. Various delicious foods are a reflection of it. The natural beauty accompanied with a wide variety of species of plants and animals always excite surprise. Every place in Taiwan is really worth visiting.

Since Taiwan is such an appealing place, from my prospective, we should make more efforts to capture the mind of the world. The following are the ways to fulfill it. In the first place, the government should increase budgets for the promotion of our image through international advertising media, making more people around the world understand us. On top of that, we can hold much more cultural activities, inviting foreigners to experience our lifestyle in person, making a good impression on them. Moreover, the authorities concerned and people should cooperate fully to map out attractive travel plans to draw more visitors from abroad, such as offering cheaper and convenient transportation and accommodation.
